AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 2—(P)—
Prices to farmers for most field crops, meat animals and wool dropped during the month ending Aug. 15, the United States Deparement of Agriculture reported today.

The lower prices caused the index of prices for all agricultural commodities to drop five per cent during the month, USDA said.

The only groups registering increases were truck crops. Potatoes and sweet potatoes, poultry and eggs.

The drop in the meat animal price index was the result of moderate declines from record high averages the previous month for beef cattle, veal calves and lambs. The price of veal calves at $25.50 was off $1.20. Beef cattle and lambs each declined $1.

You insisted on freshness, fine grain, tenderness, even-colored crust, fluffiness, white color and sweet taste-in that order. Then we spent a lot of time and money developing this superior loaf. Skylark is this bread. Try it. And remember, your money back if you don't agree it's the finest bread you ever tasted.

Paul, the Tent-Maker, Returns to His Trade —Sheltered in the Home of Aquila and Priscilla—The Bond of Labor Unions as a Social Factor—A Family as Refuge and Support

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS

Paul, the tent-maker, and two w craftsmen, a man and his Aquilla and Priscilla. us opens the door for a dis-on of the labor question. The e is full of timely interest. It s light upon the present divi-between labor and capital; a rision that must be bridged if ocracy is to prevail.

Irst of all, let it be said that the frid which we all covet, cannot established on a basis of indusial division and hatred. The inrest of labor and of capital are erest of labor and of capital are undamentally one. Discreet persons of judicious ninds see how the class strife is ccentuated on both sides. Some artisans decry labor unionism as nly evil, while in reverse, many mions treat capital as a monstrous enemy. This is a day to stress the merits of labor unions; and the public spirit of many, many employers. Both have as their primary mission, the service of mankind. Neither can prosper without the other. Both desperately need a strong infusion of Christian principles. Those Calloused Hands

Those Calloused Hands Like all the best Jews of his day, the Apostle Paul had been taught a trade. He was a philosopher, an orator, a born leader of men, yet he supported himself by the humble trade of weaving coarse rugs such as are to this day, the fabric of the Arab tent home.
While the his writing Paul in quence and abality. oThis Apollos, a natural leader, knew only of Texas, is state chairman for the grounder message, Priscilla and Aquila took him in charge to teach him the full Gospel. They succeeded finally; reminding us that we who are commonplace, may yet be the inspirers and supporters of the really great. These two Christian Jews became partakers of all the subsequent great work that Apollos was to do; just as Aquila and Priscilla contributed to the power and usefulness of Paul. Many a preacher would preach better if he were taken by an alert layman on a fishing trip, or to some appropriate entertainment in the nearest city.
